KEY POINTS: CONJUNCTIONS IN SPANISH

- Conjunctions in Spanish can be single words (y, pero, o) or compound if they're formed with more than one term (siempre y cuando).
- There are two main types of conjunctions in Spanish – coordinating and subordinating conjunctions.
- Spanish coordinating conjunctions join elements with the same value in the sentence (nouns with nouns/pronouns, verbs with verbs, etc).
- Coordinating conjunctions can add and contrast information or provide alternatives. Examples of coordinating conjugations are y, o, pero.
- Spanish subordinating conjunctions join a main clause with a dependent or subordinate sentence.
- Subordinate conjunctions provide more information about the main clause. This information can be conditions, time, cause, purpose, or comparisons.
