-ER	YES	Ver To see	Viendo Seeing	Visto Seen

	Indicative	Subjunctive	Imperative
Irregularities	Present: ve for 'yo', omit the accent mark for 'vosotros'. Preterite: v and omit the accent marks for all subject pronouns. Imperfect: ve for all subject pronouns.	Present: ve for all subject pronouns. Imperfect: vie for all subject pronouns.	Affirmative: ve for all subject pronouns. Negative: vea for all subject pronouns.

DEFINITION & EXAMPLES

VER

To say 'to see', 'to watch', or 'to look at'
(To see/watch/look at)

Formula

[Ver conjugated] + [complement]

No había visto que te pintaste el cabello.
I hadn't seen that you dyed your hair.

Desearía que hubieran visto el desfile.
I wish you guys had seen the parade.

Estos asuntos se verán en la reunión.
We'll look at this matter during the meeting.

The third example uses the passive voice with se because we want to emphasize what is being seen instead of who is seeing it.

Take Note: If it's clear what the thing or person you're seeing is, you can replace this information with a Spanish direct object pronoun.
